	Question	Response
1	On Monday 15 June at 8.00pm, I was contacted by a constituent regarding a fly tipping incident at Carrick Hills, Ayr. This incident involved the road being blocked by a large amount of garden waste and old decking etc leaving residents with no vehicular access to their properties. At this time of the evening, I did not have a council procedure to follow to rectify this situation. Should South Ayrshire Council not have emergency procedures in place to allow Councillors to report such issues to Senior Council Officers for incidents to be resolved in a timely manner rather than waiting until the next day. As I am led to believe this is the situation in other local authorities.	There is an emergency procedure in operation. The South Ayrshire Monitoring Station (SAMS) provides a 24-hour, 365-day emergency response, community alarm, and telecare monitoring service for vulnerable residents and council properties. The number is 0300 123 0900 In relation to this specific incident, the SAMS team contacted ARA at 10pm on Monday the 15th June and they arranged for the road to be cleared. ARA then contacted Waste Management who removed the material the following morning, Tuesday the 16th June
