What is Community Planning

Under the Community Empowerment (Scotland) Act 2015, community planning is about how public bodies work together, and with the local community, to plan for, resource and provide or secure the provision of services which improve local outcomes in a local authority area, with a view to reducing inequalities

In other words, it is about working together to make a real difference to our local communities and people's lives.

There are 32 CPPs across Scotland, 1 for each council area. Each CPP is responsible for developing and delivering their plan in their council area

Effective Community Planning

Effective community planning works by:

- Understanding local communities, needs, circumstances and opportunities which they can use to identify local priorities. (ref: Community Empowerment (Scotland Act: Part 2 Community Planning))
- This understanding is built on the information, knowledge and evidence from community planning partners, as well as from the views of local people.
- Producing improvement plans – an example of this is our Local Outcomes Improvement Plan known as our LOIP.
