- (2) that, in relation to the Scottish National,
  - (a) she had held a briefing meeting with supervisors prior to the race meeting and that significant improvements had been made since last year's race meeting with more supervision taking place during the event this year and racecourse permanent staff more easily identifiable due to their knowledge and awareness; and
  - (b) staff and Police Scotland were to be commended for their actions in dealing with the protestors in such an efficient manner;
- (3) that, in relation to the Pavilion Festival,
  - (a) she had attended the event on the Saturday, which had been a younger age group compared to the Sunday and had quickly resolved the few small issues which had arisen such as alcohol being consumed near to and on the big wheel; and that she had also addressed this in her feedback to the organisers;
  - (b) good practices had been displayed by the agency staff including the operation of the Challenge 25 policy;
  - (c) there had been a high police presence, including the use of police dogs at the event and members of the public had commented that this added to the safety of the event; and
  - (d) that feedback she had received from the licensed trade in Ayr had advised that they had benefited from the event on the Sunday due to visitors to the Festival going for breakfast or lunch prior to the event and visiting pubs after the event for drinks; and
- (4) that the licensed trade were being made aware that there would soon be an opportunity for them to offer their feedback on the Board's draft Statement of Licensing Policy.

The Chair then advised that he had recently met with members of the later opening premises in Ayr and had an open and frank discussion on the impact of events in the area on the local licensed trade which had been very beneficial.

Inspector McColl, Police Scotland outlined that no negative feedback had been received from the Scottish National; that, in relation to the Pavilion Festival, a debriefing had yet to take place, however, only small issues had been raised which had been resolved quickly by Police Scotland and the Licensing Standards Officer; and that these had been very positive events for the town.

Comments were made by Board Members in relation to:-

- (i) positive feedback received from local residents in relation to the Pavilion Festival regarding the noise breakout being minimised and the large police presence;
- (ii) both events being very well attended and well organised due to the robust planning which had taken place prior to the events;
- (iii) being pleased to note the feedback from Police Scotland on the Scottish National given the concerns following last year's race meeting indicating that management had addressed the Board's concerns;
- (iv) thanking the Licensing Standards Officer for her work in assisting the organisers of the Pavilion Festival which had resulted in a good standard of event going forward; and

- (v) that events of this calibre put Ayr back on the map; and that the Board would continue to support organisers of events to ensure they were held safely.
